Genesis 1 (KJV)

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. The earth was without form and void, and darkness covered the deep. Then God spoke, and light burst into being. He called the light Day and the darkness Night — that was the first day.

On the second day God separated the waters and made the great sky above. On the third day He gathered the seas into one place and let the dry land appear. He filled the earth with grass, herbs, and fruit trees, every one bearing seed after its kind.

On the fourth day God set the sun, moon, and stars in the heavens to give light upon the earth and to mark the seasons. On the fifth day He filled the seas with living creatures and the sky with every winged bird.

On the sixth day God made every animal on the land. Then He said, 'Let us make man in our image.' He formed Adam from the dust and breathed into him the breath of life. And God saw every thing that He had made, and, behold, it was very good.

On the seventh day God rested from all His work — not because He was weary, but because His work was finished. He blessed the seventh day and made it holy.
